Vorster Ends 12-Year Rule Of S. Africa

PRETORIA, South Africa, Sept. 20 (NYT) — Prime Minister John Vorster resigned today because of ill health, but agreed to accept posimation as state president, a litherto utular post that is likely to insure him a strong influence on government racial policies under his successor.

The 62-year-old government fader, ending 12 years in office, complet his resignation with the ansomement of early elections in South-West Africa. The move effec-sively sidelined a United Nations peace plan for the territory and seemed certain to provoke an inter-ganomal furor, with demands for conomic sanctions against South

Three Front-Runners

The contest will involve at least three and possibly four contenders, all opposed to black majority rule, but with significantly different attitudes towards lesser reforms. At this stage, no clear favorite bas been established among the three front-runners, Defense Minister Pieter Botha, Labor Minister Stephanus Botha and Interior Minister Cornelius Mulder, who is responsible for black affairs.

Defense Minister Botha, 62, and Mr. Mulder, 53, favorites of the conservative wing, have strongly defended policies that offer blacks minor reforms without any fundamental changes in the official poli-cy of separate racial development. Labor Minister Botha, 56, and the outsider in the race, Foreign Minister Roelof Botha, 46, are believed to favor wider reforms, possibly in-cluding eventual power-sharing with blacks in a federal system.

Mr. Vorster's resignation had been widely forecast in the wake of his nine-day hospitalization late last month for what was officially described as bronchitis and exhaus-tion. Friends said privately that his health problem, related to persis-tent low blood pressure that has dogged him in recent years, caused his doctors to warn that he night not survive unless he slowed down.

The prime minister announced his move at the Union Building, a sandstone edifice on a rise above Pretoria that serves as the adminis-

Hussein to Give Pacts Serious Consideration

AMMAN, Jordan, Sept. 20 (UPI)

- King Hussein of Jordan agreed today to give serious consideration to the Camp David peace accords, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter 3d reported. But be said that King Hussein had first bombarded Secretary of State

Cyrus Vance with questions.

The meeting with King Hussein was described as the first crucial phase of a campaign to win over the skeptical Arab world to the Camp David agreements. Mr. Vance's mission here was called difficult but be has powerful per-suaders — arms and money.

Mr. Carter described the talks as "thorough, friendly, belpful and useful." He said that Mr. Vance had not expected to receive a clear Jordanian answer this early in his contacts and added, "It was elear King Hussein and his government are giving the entire matter their serious consideration."

Mr. Carter said there was no clear indication after the first twohour session between Mr. Vance and the moderate Jordanian monarch whether Amman might join the direct negotiations with

Before Mr. Vance arrived, both Jordan and Saudi Arabia, two of the moderate Arab states, criticized the Camp David agreements. The Saudis said that they did not consider them a framework for peace. There was a growing swell of opposition in other Arab nations.

Status of Jerusalem

Mr. Carter said that the status of Jerusalem, which Jordan and other Arabs want freed from the Israeli occupation which took place in the 1967 war, had come up in the discussions. He said the central impor-tance of the issue to the Arabs was well known, but he declined to go into detail on how prominently it figured in the talks.

... Winning the support of Jordan and Saudi Arabia, which Mr. Vance will visit tomorrow, was seen as vital in U.S. efforts to assure that the Camp David talks produced not merely a separate Egypan eventual overall Middle Eeast settlement

President Carter, speaking in At-lantic City, N.J., reported new progress toward an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. He said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had agreed to immediate talks at the ministerial level, with U.S. participation, on such a treaty.

Israeli Prime Minister Mena-chem Begin told Jewish leaders in New York that Israel stood at a crossroads on the way to peace but warned he was ready to defend his bomeland against any enemies.

"I hereby declare the Israeli defense forces will stay in Judea, Samaria [the West Bank] and the Gaza Strip to defend our people and make sure Jewish blood will not be shed again." Mr. Begin said. [Mr. Begin also said that Israel plans to maintain a military presence on the West Bank of the Jordan beyond the five-year transition period leading to Palestinian selfrule, Reuters reported. [Mr. Begin also declared that Jerusalem would remain the capital of Israel "for as long as the Jewish people shall live." He called on the Carter administration to recognize Jerusalem as Israel's capital in the name of "international morality."] Mr. Begin said that be had refused to sign any document condemning the acquisition of territory by force in spite of intense pressure President Carter. #### Summit a 'Catastrophe,' Assad Tells Hardliners

DAMASCUS, Sept. 20 (AP) — President Hafez al-Assad of Syria today opened the meeting of Arah hardliners opposed to the results of the Camp David Summit bere saying the Egyptian-Israeli accords were a "catastrophe" for the Arab nation and must be reversed.

Addressing three other Arab presidents and a gathering of Palestinian guerrilla leaders. President Assad accused his former ally, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, of going back on all his past promises. "He has turned his back on the Arabs," Mr. Assad charged.

[Mr. Assad, Reuters reported, said: "I do not rule out that possibility that Sadat, in association with his friend Begin will launch an offensive operation against Syria.]

The outcome of the Camp David conference "is the biggest victory that the enemies of the Arab nation could have achieved." he continued. Mr. Assad leads the Arab bloc that has opposed Mr. Sadat's peace initiative from the outset.

He said Camp David marked the beginning of a period "of mourning for the Arabs, a catastrophe with all the meaning of the word.

Presidents Houari Boumedienne of Algeria, Moamer Qadafi of Libya and Ali Nasser Mohammed of South Yemen, together with Yasser Arafat, the chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization and other guerrilla leaders groups listened attentively to Mr. Assad's short opening address. The stated purpose of the meeting is to map a new strategy to confront the results of the Camp David conference. 'All the Arabs are looking to us gathered here now, hoping that we shall be able to dispel the darkness and erase this injustice," he added.

Most obsevers expect the summit to end before the visit to Syria of U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance this weekend. There has been no official announcement in Damascus of the Vance visit.

Inevitable Move

Arab analysts in Damascus believed that the Arab states opposed to the American-suported Egypt-Israeli peace moves would inevitably move closer to the Soviet Union as a result of the summit accords.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, who visited Moscow ently, had reportedly suggested that the Arabs "mobilize and conclude (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Sadat Says Peace Treaty To Be Signed in 2 Months

CAIRO, Sept. 20 (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat, assured of army hacking and ignoring the protests of both Arab radicals and moderates, announced today that he will sign a peace treaty with Israel in two

Mr. Sadat said he was ordering a sweeping shakeup of the Egyptian administration and demobilizing some army units "because the hattle of liberating [occupied lands] is over.

"We have to devote ourselves to construction now," he said. Mr. Sadat defended the Camp David peace accords as a triumph for Egypt and the Palestinians and said that he would go ahead with implementation despite the objections of moderate Jordan and Saudi Arabia. Mr. Sadat's remarks were made at separate meetings in Washington with U.S. editors and Egyptian students enrolled in U.S. universities.

Mr. Sadat said be opted for peace because the conflict could have dragged on for years inconclusively, with neither Egypt nor Israel completely capable of routing the other.

Agreed With Begin

"Now I do not have to send my children to their death in Sinzi. once every five years" he said. Mr. Sadat said he agreed with Prime Minister Menachem Begin that an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty would be concluded before the expiration of the three months called for by the Camp David accords.

"Begin agreed with me that this period should be less than three months," Mr. Sadat said. "So in the space of three or two months — and my estimate it will be before then — we shall reach the peace treaties that will mark the beginning of the realization of peace." [A Kuwaiti newspaper said the treaty will be signed Nov. 19 — the first anniversary of Mr. Sadat's milestone trip to Jerusalem].

Anthem's Germany Strikes Sour Note

By John Vinocur

BONN, Sept. 20 (NYT) — For a golden oldie, it is not much of a toe-tapper. But the lyrics, by local standards, have a catchy something: Deutschland, Deutsch-land Ueber Alles, Ueber Alles in Der Welt!

That old song is back. About 100,000 records of it are being sent in the mail by 29 members of the Bundestag to trade unions, schools and citizens. The reason the sponsors state on the back of the album cover, is that "there is no other country where the national hymn is so neglected."
The peculiarity of the initiative is that the record contains the first stanza of the song, which has not been officially sung in West Germany since the Nazi era. The music of the national anthem has not changed since it was adopted in 1922, but these days only the lyrics of the third stanza, which go on rather moffensively about unity, justice and freedom, are used.

Besides placing West Germany over everything in the world, the first stanza contains some baidly irredentist sentiments.

Called Embarrassment

The problem with the song's geography is that it includes as part of West Germany areas of Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, Italy, Poland and the Soviet Union. As for the tone of the first stanza. Wilhelm Hahn, the former education minister of the state of Baden-Wuerttemberg, said, "In the light of our recent history, it's an embarrassment to have anyone pushing it."

The members of the Bundestag, all from the Christian Democratic and Christian Social Union parties, who have sent the records and texts of the lyrics to their constituents — along with pictures and autographs — say the campaign is just an effort to instill a bit of needed patriotism.

The last distribution of records of "Deutschland Ueber Alles" to schoolchildren was halted by Mr. Hahn. That program, confined to Baden-Wuerttemberg, was begun in March by the state's former premier, Hans Filbinger, who was forced to resign in August after it was shown that he had lied about his activities as a judge and prosecutor during World War II.

The Social Democratic Party of Chancel'or Helmut Schmidt has criticized the effort. A party spokesman said today, "It certainly will be misunderstood by other countries and stirring up this kettle of emotions does absolutely no good."

No senator expressed total satisfaction with the bill Opponents of opposition from Mr. Brooke's contended that it would mean price increases for consumers without a guarantee of more gas production. Producer spokesmen said that it would mean more regulation dur-

They also con-tended that it would hring more gas into the interstate market, hy wiping out the unregulated intrastate market, and avoid winter shortages. The administation also converted some members by arguing that the hill was needed to shore up the dollar ahroad and to convince the world that the United States was serious about coping with impending energy problems.

The focus of attention will soon shift to the House, which voted for continued regulation by a narrow margin and where the Carter administration is again confronted with opposition.

House members are being invited in groups to White House breakfasts, where they are given arguments for the hill by Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, Chairman William Miller of the Federal Reserve Board and the president's chief anti-inflation assistant, Rob-

· The House, on the other hand, passed it as a single hill on the the-ory that it would be easier to put through a comprehensive package.

Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, who coordinated energy action as chairman of the House Ad Hoc Energy Committee, said that the House plan was to repackage the four parts into a single conference report for one vote. The Justice Department started an investigation several months ago into whether the approaches by Vesco associates to the administration were improper. Officials said last night that Mr. Carter will have to be questioned by the FBI about his note to Mr. Bell.

Mr. Bell said in a telephone interview last night that he never saw the note, although it was found in Justice Department files last week after a White House query.

The attorney general added that Mr. Lee had never asked for an appointment, and that the president never asked him what happened to Mr. Lee's expected query on Mr. Vesco's behalf.

$1-Million Fee

Mr. Lee has confirmed in interviews and sworn testimony that he came to Washington on Feb. 7, of last year, with the intention of contacting Mr. Jordan about the Vesco matter for a fee of $1 million. Mr. Lee had been hired by R.L. Herring, an Albany, Ga., businessman with ties to Mr. Vesco, because of Mr. Lee's longstanding friendship with Mr. Jordan.

But both Mr. Lee and Mr. Jordan have said that the two never discussed the Vesco approach or exchanged any correspondence on the subject.

Mr. Lee did visit another oldfriend, Mr. Harden, at the White House on Feb. 8, Mr. Granum said yesterday. At a private dinner that evening, Mr. Harden said that Mr. Lee told him of his plan to contact Mr. Jordan about Mr. Vesco. "During dinner, Lee told Harden

"Lee asked Harden to tell the president of the approach by the Vesco people," Mr. Granum said yesterday, to assure the president that Mr. Lee had rejected the plan. The Carter note to Mr. Bell was discovered in the files of Michael Kelly, the attorney general's top personal aide, Mr. Bell's spokes-man, Mr. Adamson said. The note also was recorded as having been received in Mr. Bell's office log of presidential correspondence. But it had been delivered before

Russians, Others Observe NATO Simulation of War

GROSSMEHRING, West Germany, Sept. 20 (AP) - Soviet Maj. Gen. Alexander Knirkov watched intently yesterday as NATO planes roared overhead and West German tanks numbled across the Danube River in maneuvers by the North Atlantic alliance.

Gen. Knirkov's aide, a young Soviet naval captain, listened closely to German explanations of the war games while the bridging operation unfolded to the sound of mock fire from light weapons and artillery.

Nine months before, NATO ob-servers watched Soviet maneuvers near Minsk. Western military attaches viewed a Soviet parachute drop from supersonic aircraft and several came away highly impressed with Soviet airborne units. Exchanges of observers between NATO and the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact have been growing steadily since the 1975 Helsinki agreements, which specifically encouraged ob-server visits as a "confidence-building" measure. Among other foreign officials observing the NATO exercises were delegations from China, India, Pakistan and Egypt

Neither the NATO countries nor the Warsaw Pact nations have shown the outside visitors any military secrets. But officers say that they still find the trips useful, and that they are not reluctant to meet their potential enemies.

A West German military spokes-man said that the scenario for Blue Dannbe consisted of an "arbitrarily chosen situation with no political significance." But Gen. Knirkov might have suspected that the script was based on a Soviet invasion. In the scanario, an army designated by the color red invades West Germany. German and affied troops join forces to push it back.

The style of Western and Soviet hospitality for visiting mailitary delegations has differed. When observers from the United States, Belgium, the Netherlands and other NATO countries visited the Soviet maneuvers, they were sumptiously fed on caviar and other delicacies and supplied with vodka, Western officers reported. "We kept saying that we wanted to go out and see some more action, but they seemed to prefer to have us inside eating," one of the officers recalled after those maneuvers ended. Some officers also said that the Russians encouraged them to leave their binoculars at home, providing them on the spot with extremely low-powered binoculars to follow the action.

fed the same food that West German officers and enlisted men est Military officers said that the Rus-sians also brought along their own hinoculars.

The Russians probably offered the Westerners a better military show in Minsk than the Germans offered here. Military officers said that the parachute drop gave NATO observers a good view of a complex Soviet operation, while the river crossing was a fairly simple

NATO Maneuvers Show U.S. Potential

By Drew Middleton

FRANKFORT, Sept. 20 (NYT) The huge military exercises now being conducted by the United States and its partners in the North Atlantic alliance bring to mind the comment of the French general watching the charge of the Light Brigade in the Crimean war. It's magnificent, he said, but it's not war. Perhaps no peacetime exercise in history has been as precisely planned as the annual autumn exercises that bring thousands of U.S. soldiers and bundreds of aircraft and ships to Europe to demonstrate the U.S. resolution and capability to reinforce NATO in a confrontation or a war with the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies. The magnificent part of the exercise is the effectiveness and the efficiency with which 13,000 troops from Louisiana, Colorado, Texas and Washington have been airlifted across the Atlantic to reinforce the Seventh Army in West Germany. At the same time, two squadrons of

Lapses and Mistakes

In exercises, as in war, nothing is ever 100-percent effective and there have been lapses and mistakes. But thousands of soldiers, airmen and seamen have put away in their memory banks the problems of large-scale military movement and their solutions. They have also become accustomed to using the stocks of tanks, guns, missiles and trucks stored in Europe. The air crews have received special training in radar bombing, close air support and low level attack procedures that are unique in the combat environment of central Europe.

The planners and the executors of Autumn Forge, as the joint exercise is called, should return to their normal duties with an enlems of European reinforcement. They should also recognize more clearly the unanswered, and perhaps unanswerable, problems con-nected with a U.S. effort in crisis or war to reinforce U.S. forces in Europe.

Geography poses the most press-ing problem.
The bulk of U.S. heavy equipment already in West Germany is stored in huge depots west of the Rhine River. Army units flown from the United States, after picking up their heavy arms and transport, must then proceed eastward across the Rhine and, in some cases, across the Main River.

In a crisis this would not be an obstacle. In war it could be extremely serious.

No Secret

The Soviet Air Force and the surface-to-surface missile forces would have as their primary missions the destruction of West German bridges and of the stored equipment. Since there are an estimated 11,000 East European spies operating in West Germany, the lothe tanks required by the Soviet Union to match the U.S., British and West German tanks will cost about $40 billion. The Soviet fleetto-fighter bombers in time will be qualitatively inferior to the U.S. F-15s and F-16s and the Anglo-Gar-man Tornado. To replace even the older Soviet fighters it will cost at least $18 billion.

To senior NATO commanders this is limited consolation. They believe that the Russians understand the need for expensive new tanks and aircraft by the early 1980s. This will take a higher percentage of the Soviet gross national product than the 13 percent now allotted to the military.

Business Tax Incentive Passed by Senate Panel

By Art Pine

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (WP) The Senate Finance Committee voted yesterday to add a half-bilfen-dollar sweetener for business with tax bill passed by the House. ni the form of faster depreciation write-offs designed to spur more invisiment in new facilities.

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. joyd Bentsen, D-Tex., is a scaled-lack version of a plan suggested entier by William Miller, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board Mr. Miller had proposed a cut of about $5 billion.

There was no immediate indica-tion of how yesterday's action sould affect the committee's plans to enlarge the other tax cuts for business included in the House bill. Most observers had figured that if the panel approved faster writeoffs for depreciation, it would earmark these as a replacement for at least some of the cuts in corporate parates voted by the House.

Although the Bentsen provision would cost $513 million a year at first, by 1983 it would drain $3 bilion a year in Treasury revenues. The impact during fiscal 1979, which begins Oct. 1, would be $200

The committee also voted to more than double the amount of ininstrial development bonds that ente and local governments may isine tax-free, raising this to $2 mila six-year period.

And it defeated, by a vote of 9 to 4 a proposal by Scn. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., that would have extended the jobs tax credit for siness. The panel simplified it to make it more attractive to small

The Carter administration had opposed a full-fledged extension, in favor of a House passed provision that would "target" the jobs credit by limiting it to biring of inner-city youths. Sen. Haskell's proposal

Prolonged Delays

The Finance Committee still has not acted on the major provisions of the tax bill passed by the House, including the tax reductions for individuals, which the White House wants to revamp.

The delays have been so pro-longed that some observers are skeptical that the panel will be able to complete its consideration of the House bill this week, as committee leaders had intended.

The committee failed to resolve a dispute over its earlier vote to enlarge the carned-income credit for the working poor. Sen. Harry Byrd Jr., I-Va., has objected to the move as creating "an additional welfare

House Votes to Raise Limit On Allowable Duty-Free Goods

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (UPI) - The House yesterday passed and sent to the White House legislation that would liberalize the amount of goods that Americans may bring duty-free from other countries into the United States.

The bill also would permit the U.S. Customs Service to implethe release of goods as soon as an entry document is filed.

Under current law, Americans who re-enter the United States may escape duty on $100 worth of goods, except when returning from American Samoa, Guam or the Virgin Islands, in which case a $200 limit is permitted. The hill would raise those limits to $300 for most countries and $600 from American Samoa, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

In addition, a 10-percent duty would be placed on all articles over the limit as long if the goods were for the traveler's personal use and if their value did not exceed $600. The rate would be 5 percent for the U.S. possessions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP)

— The Soviet Union has bought
100,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat

Department of Agriculture said yesterday.

Moscow had previously ordered 565,000 tons of corn to be delivered in the third year of a long-term purchase agreement that will begin on Oct. 1. The new purchase is the first wheat to be bought by the Soviet Union for delivery in the third year of the agreement.

The Knesset Vote

Not living under a parliamentary system, we perhaps do not fully understand all the niceties that Prime Minister Menachem Begin evokes by way of explaining why it would be distasteful and even impure for him to try to influence his parliament's forthcoming vote on dismantling Israeli settlements in the Sinai. The Knesset's decision, two weeks hence, he holds, will be "completely free." taken with "no party discipline," done by each member "in accordance with his own conscience." He presents this view as a sign of reverence for a venerable political tradition, something for which he should be

His personal detachment, however, is something else again. Mr. Begin himself concedes that his own foreign minister finds his diffidence "a little bit curious." It is more. It is, in a word, pusillanimous. We are not sure whether it is Mr. Begin's Zionist commitment to pioneering and settling, or an obligation to certain constituencies, or something else that accounts for his refusal to speak out for removal of the Sinai settlements. No matter. He has a responsibility to work for his own government's programs, of which none can now have a higher priority than the successful conclusion of an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty. To say, as he does, that "98 percent" of the treaty has been negotiated is to ignore that the completing "2 percent," without which the rest is meaningless, lies exclusively in Israel's hands.

Without removal of the settlements, Egypt would have reason to say that Israel had broken faith with its Camp David undertakings. That would be the end of the whole process set in train at the summit. "This settlement issue," Anwar Sadat says, "is a matter of principle for me. It is not something we can compromise on. This is something that I can't agree to, or afford." We entirely agree.

But, you may say, surely the Knesset, even voting "freely," will play out this charade in a manner befitting the stakes in the Middle East. Probably so. But that does not still all our misgivings. It is troubling that Mr. Begin would be ready to cast the impression that, rather than sully his own personal record, he would buck to his parliament the admittedly difficult but essential business of closing out the Sinai settlements. That is a cold response to the generous and fundamental adjustments Mr. Sadat has made in positions he had previously taken - as a matter of principle. Mr. Begin might better have welcomed, or at least accepted, the responsibility to show leadership and give inspiration to Israelis - and to Egyptians, too. The outcome of the Knesset's vote may not be in climate in which Israel's subsequent negotiations, with Egypt and with Jordan and the Palestinians, unfold.

Mr. Begin's approach to the Knesset vote is out of character with the statesmanship he showed at Camp David. We hope he will re-

THE WASHINGTON POST.

Need for a Second Opinion

By launching a campaign to urge patients to get a second doctor's opinion before submitting to surgery, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is addressing a serious medical problem. U.S. surgeons, though unexcelled in technical skill, may also be knife-happy. A congressional study esti-mates that 17 percent of all operations performed in the United States are unnecessary, at a cost of almost $4 billion. A third of all hysterectomies, to cite one kind of operation, are thought to be unwarranted.

Against such a background, the new HEW campaign to persuade patients not to rush into surgery is eminently sensible and humane. It is hardly radical. Medicare already covers 80 percent of a second-opinion fee and can cover it all. Even third opinions can be covered. Why, then, should such a campaign even be necessary? The answer is, at least in part, that when doctors say "Surgery," many patients respond with blind, unquestioning trust. Yet surgeons, like other doctors, are fallible, not so much in the exercise of their skills as in determining the need to exercise them. Most able practitioners, indeed, are likely to welcome subjecting their judgments to independent confirma-

That raises one caution about the new HEW campaign. The medical profession has always displayed collegial solidarity and merely asking for a second opinion may provide no more than a replay of the first. The new campaign should be accompanied by guidelines to show a patient how to get a second diagnosis that is reasonably independent of the first. By setting up a national toll-free hotline for referrals, HEW has taken a first step in that direction. The goal must be the most reliable possible advice; otherwise, the drive to obtain a second opinion could end up producing nothing more useful than a second doctor bill.

Rhodesia Sanctions Evasion

It must now go without saying that a fuller inquiry than Bingham could conduct is needed (direly needed) to establish who among the politicians was aware of the scale of sanctions evasion and what steps those responsible for strategy against the Smith regime took to find out. On the evidence of Bingham, the government repeatedly deceived the House of Commons, the country and the friends of Africa about the nature of the operation to bring Rhodesia back to legality. Sacrifices were made by Rhodesia's neighbors, notably Zambia, which turn out to be totally unnecessary. Confidence was created that a war in Rhodesia would not be needed. And all this came about because the government primarily Sir Harold Wilson's government, refused to take the people into its confidence. When the sanctions policy failed, it was the government's duty to admit it and find another one rapidly. That it did not do so was the gravest breach of trust between government and people.

- From the Guardian (London)..

The charges against the government can be reduced to two broad heads: hypocrisy and incompetence. The hypocrisy is at its most blatant in the case of the Beira patrol (maintained off Beira at taxpayers expense even though the government knew that that was the one place where oil was unlikely to be delivered because there were secure routes elsewhere). The incompetence is on a massive scale. It is said that at the beginning, the first Wilson government did not know what was going on because it had not been informed by the oil companies. A government that was intent on enforcing sanctions would have made it its business to find out. Worse was to follow. The government actually connived in a deal that allowed, even facilitated, oil to reach Rhodesia by non-British sources. Britain, meanwhile, is left looking not only foolish but dishonest. There is talk now of prosecutions. Yet the first requirement is for the release of the official documents, which should show how such appalling incompetence and deception was allowed to go on. If necessary, there may have to be a public inquiry. For if the Bingham report has performed a service that goes beyond exposing the avoidance of sanctions, it has shown that the secrecy which surrounds the official decision-making process in this country can destroy the quality of government.

- From the Financial Times (London)...

Threat to West's Oil

The underlying and increasingly debilitating cause is the U.S. failure, since the Vietnam defeat and particularly under Mr. Carter's leadership, to understand the use of power - economic, political and diplomatic -and behind all these, to the extent that it is necessary as a warning or even for use in the defense of vital interests, military power. The more U.S. prestige and credibility slip throughout the world and the more Soviet preponderance is allowed to spread, the more unstable conditions become and the less willing and able are President Sadat and Mr. Begin to take risks for peace. Time is getting desperately short for Mr. Carter to learn that he cannot discharge the vast responsibilities of the United States around the world by a combination of moral persuasion and Andy Youngism, and for oil-guzzling and lobbygroup ridden United States to adjust self-indulgencs to hard realities.

- From the Daily Telegraph (London)...

And, like almost everyone else interviewed in her neighborhood, she is angry about taxes. She and her neighbors are convinced that "the middle-income people pay for everything, while the rich people have their loopholes and the poor get it all on welfare."

She is sure that taxes could be cut a lot "by somebody who was well organized and not out for himself. All of them promise it - but how can you trust them?" she asks.

School athletic teams have had to cancel their schedules, because the buses are not available. And families with both parents working are paying $20 a month per child for places in improvised private car pools.

"You know that's political," she says. They could have saved that money a lot of other ways, but the people who are in there [the school administration] want the people to suffer because we voted down their budget. That's the kind of thing politicians will do."

Letters. Funny Money

The Soviet Union's hizarre currency, with some rubles more equal than others (IHT, Sept.4), is certainly unique in many respects, but it is not without precedent. The U.S. government has also found it expedient to manipulate its own monetary system: The North financed its side of the Civil War mainly by issuing $450 million in paper currency — the famous greenbacks." This funny money was not redeemable in gold, nor was it accepted by the government in payment of its own customs

The value of these greenbacks naturally depreciated against the gold dollar, with their fluctuations in value reflecting at first the progress of the Union armies (e.g. 39 cents during the dark days of July 1864; 74 cents after Appoination). After the war, the ambiguous status of the greenbacks led to fierce po-litical debates, malicious currency speculation, governmental corrup-tion and judicial controversy. Only in 1879, when specie payments was resumed and they became redeemable in gold, did the greenbacks reach par value and finally obtain true equality. CARROLL DORGAN. Liege, Belgium

The 'Clunker' Comeback Is Ballooning in California

Youth Discovers One-Speed Bike

By Elliott Almond

TUNTINGTON BEACH. Calif. — They are called cruisers or clunkers. The names are appropriate because they are not sophisticated pieces of machinery. Yet combine the fickle hut trendy tastes of youth, the desire to be different, a hit of nostalgia, and another Southern California fad is

The lastest craze is the old-fashioned bicycle, circa 1930s; fat, balloon tires. Texas longhorn bandlebars, wide seats, one speed and pedal hrakes. No longer do the sophisticated 10-speed derailers, some weighing a scant 25 pounds, hold a monopoly on the pedal mar-ket — at least in Southern Califoricins: ma. The clunkers, the basic 40-pounders, are at a crest of popularity. For example:

· A clunker, in perfect shape, can sell for up to $250. At least one shop in Newport Beach deals only in clunkers.

· Another firm, LRV Industries of El Monte, has been distributing a one-speed bike called "The Regu lar Old Bike" since 1976.

 The giant bicycle maker Schwinn, recognizing the clunker's popularity, last year reintroduced one called the Spitfire, a copy of the 1932 Schwinn.

Digs Turn Up Many Artifacts

Old Jerusalem Was a City of Wealth

By Arthur Max JERUSALEM, Sept. 20 (AP) -Archaeologists peeling off lay-us of Jerusalem's history have ended their first season of excavations, falling 100 years short of the leg-endary city of King David but af-liming that this was a city of

The digging site south of the Old City walls and below the mountain peak where King Solomon huilt his temple marks the first inhabited area of Jerusalem.

It was first excavated 130 years see in search of the tomh of David. Solomon's predecessor. Several other expeditions have sought the roots of human settlement in Jerusalem, but the city, revered hy Jews, Christians and Moslems, has since collected decades of refuse and nubble. Seifert's marketing researchers noticed a trend in one-speed bicyles about three years ago. "We found there was sort of a nostalgia involved," he said. "But we also found people wanted a more com-fortable bike with wide seats and high handlebars. What they wanted was a cruiser."

Jim Kucera of Schwinn's consumer relations department in Chi-cago said, "We do sell the Spitfire all over the country, but there haven't been any signs of them taking over. Still, we are watching the market carefully."

Yet a Sunday stroll on the Southern California ocean front shows ens of a trend. Your and old alike ride cruiser bikes.

Sterling Pope, 53, and his wife started riding cruisers 14 years ago. Originally, they wanted a bike no-body would steal. Now cruisers are more likely to be stolen than 10speeds in Newport Beach.

Schwinn and LRV cruiser bikes retail for approximately $25. A custom bike at Recycled Cycles costs from $130 to $250.

Pope and McNeely have turned bike restoration into a science. There is an aesthetic value involved, like restoring old cars." Pope said. "A lot of car collectors are getting into bikes."

A newsletter — California Bal-loon Bike and Whizzer News published in Huntington Beach, has a circulation of 400 and is growing, according to publisher Leon Dixon. (Whizzers are motorized cruisers that were popular in the '40s and '50s.)

"Ten-speeds are junk bikes when yon look at them as a piece of machinery," Dixon said. They are too fragile for kids. Heck, how can you expect a kid to deliver newspapers on those bikes? It's like riding two-by-four with a foam seat They were made this way because it's cheap and quick." Dixon said that a hike collector can spend as much as $50 getting an old seat

TOKYO, Sept. 20 (AP) - Chinese archaeologists have uncarthed around 200 ancient tombs in Szechwan Province, some dating back 4,200 years, the official Hsinhua news agency reported.

PARIS, Sept. 20 (IHT) — With 16th-century folk songs (set along-singular appropriateness the side his most advanced piece rand comprehensive Paris-Berlin exhibition at the Centre Beautourg is including a series of concerts devoted to music that fits into the place and time (1900-33) of the Honegger, but also implied in different ways in the cabaret music (as

In the nature of things, the music much as a French as a German is occupying a miniscule place in mode of expressioo) and the total framework of the exhibition. For one thing, the concerts are being given in a small area within being given in a small area within the exhibition space itself, meaning that only small-scale works can be given in poor listening conditions to be heard by a minute percentage of the people who will see this show

The remaining concerts are scheduled for Oct. 8 (Busoni, Scherchen and the New Musie) and Oct. 29 (the Berlin pupils of Schoenberg). The concerts are at 6 p.m. and admission is included in entrance to the exhibition. Berlin during this period, in particular the 1920s. For once, music was almost precisely in step with trends in other arts instead of bringing up the rear, and the overlapping of ar-tistic disciplines can sometimes even be found in one person.

Thus, there is a sense of wholeness in listening to the music of, say, Kurt Weill and Hanns Eisler, while surrounded by the works of George Grosz, Otto Dix and exponents of the New Objectivity, or in hearing "agitprop" songs while leaning on a case containing pro-grams from Erwin Piscator's the-

Cabaret Pioneer

And the programs included a song hy Frank Wedekind, fundamentally a literary figure but also pioneer of cabaret music as a "serious" art form, and music by Arnold Scheenberg, who is represented hy one of his paintings in the expressionist area of the show.

Within the severe space and time limitations, the programs have been shrewdly chosen by David Drew - a leading scholar of this musical realm - to bring out the links between past and present, Paris and Berlin, and the most disparate musical personalities.

There are some extraordinary juxtapositions. Who would think of cabaret songs in connection with Richard Strauss? Yet just such a feedback suggests itself in the al-most unknown "Kraemerspiegel," which the sarcastic texts of Alfred Kerr - almost repulsively savage attacks on music publishers are set to the most elaborately lyrical Straussian piano accompani-ments. Here, the hero of "Ein Heldenleben" raises parody and self-parody to a high art.

Some things you simply cannot improve upon. That is why, since 1820, Beefeater's secret recipe has remained unchanged. The same family has taken the same care in achieving the same unmistakable taste and inimitable character that makes Beefeater. unquestionably the world's linest gin.

Ennia are a leading Dutch Insurance Group.

Indeed, in terms of gross recipts, we're one of the largest insurance groups in the Netherlands.

Between 1973 and 1977, total receipts have risen from Dfl. 906m. to Dfl. 1,850m., an annual average of 20%.

Profits have developed satisfactorily too: from Dfl. 22.2m. to Dfl. 42.9m. over the same period.

Three main activities

We operate internationally in three main areas: Life Assurance, General Insurance and some non-insurance but related fields such as personal loans, mortgages, property development and holiday centres—where our marketing strength, expertise in investment analysis and property management can be profitably employed.

Life Assurance accounted for 61% of our business last year, gross receipts have risen from Dfl. 631m. to Dfl. 1,125 in 1977.

General Insurance produced 32% of our income in 1976 and has increased from Dfl. 242m. to Dfl. 596m. in the past five years. Results were an improvement on previous years. Other countries and inward reinsurance have performed well. Non-insurance activities have grown to 7% of our business, from Dfl. 377 in 1973 to Dfl. 128m.

in 1977. International growth

At the moment, most of our revenue is generated within the Netherlands, a home market that provides, overall, a sound and profitable base. But our overseas strength is developing well. We have offices, subsidiaries and affiliates in the United Kingdom, Belgium the United States, the Caribbean, Republic of Surinam and the Middle East. They already contribute 20% of our total gross receipts, and we plan to increase that percentage.

Overall, Ennia have a record of producing sustained balanced growth at home and overseas to the benefit of both shareholders and policyholders.

Our interim results, just released, show the same picture: with gross receipts, and net profits increasing.

EVEN the scientists who proposed the theory had some initial difficulty in believing it. After all, it seemed a little far-fetched to suggest that chemicals in some hair sprays, deodorants, and similar actosol products could damage life on earth by destroying come molec-ules a dozen miles above the planet's surface. But the theory touched off one of the most celebrated envi-ronmental clashes of recent years.

To many people, the battles and skirmishes fought over serosol spray cans have been pretty confusing. Each new piece of information and each new challenge to the theory has received front-page treat-ment, and the uncertainties have been fully exploited by the public-relations machinery of the spray can industry. "The Ozone War" helps to put the whole debate in perspective. It is a detailed account of how the theory gradually gained credibility and ultimately widespread acceptance by scientists and of how it eventually led to regulatory action in several countries. The book also covers related battles over suggestions that supersonic aircraft and the space shuttle may similarly damage the environment.

Written by a reporter who fol-lowed the battles for the "Toronto Globe and Mail" and a scientist who spent some time on the front lines, "The Ozone War" is an anatomy of a problem that is becoming increasingly familiar. How can so-ciety balance the benefits of technology against potential health or environmental risks when those risks are hypothetical, difficult to measure, or both?

Aerosol sprays first came under fire in 1974 when two scientists from the University of California suggested that chemicals called fluorocarbons, then widely used as propellants in spray cans (and still extensively used as refrigerants), will gradually rise into the upper atmosphere. Once there, the theory goes, they will be broken down by sunlight to release chlorine, which will then chew up ozone molecules. The impact could be serious because ozooe in the upper atmos-phere plays an important role io shielding the earth from damaging ultraviolet radiation. Partial loss of the ozone shield could lead to an increase in the incidence of skio cancer and could cause biological damage to plants and animals. Dotto and Schiff do a particularly fine job io reconstruction the scientifie debate over the theory. Their account provides some good anecdotal sketches of the personalities involved, and it briogs out the rivalries that developed between research groups and individual scien-tists. If oothing else, the book should help to dispel the myth that science is a clinical process ioto which personalities oever intrude They also describe, though less sympathetically, the floorocarboo industry's attempts to stave off regulatioo through a major public-relations campaign.

While scientists were arguing about the validity of the theory, and the industry was striving to protect its investments, government regulators were wondering what to do. And well they might bave. It is difficult enough to regulate the use of products that are known to damage the environment, but in the case of fluorocarbons, the problems had not even begun to appear. Indeed, if fluorocarbons do represent a threat to the ozone layer, it will take at least a decade before the damage is sufficiently large to be measured. By that time, regulation would be too late. But an immediate ban oo the use of fluorocarbons in spray cans would cause some economic dislocation — no to mention some severe political dislocation if the theory later turned out to be wrong. "The Ozone War" describes how various regulatory agencies responded to those dilemmas. The most common, and predictable, re-sponse was to establish a plethora of committees to study the prob-

m. While the committees deliberating, more and more scien-tists studied the theory and their findings generally strengthened the case against fluorocarbons though recent findings suggest supersonic aircraft may not dam-age the ozone layer). After consid-erable hand-wringing, the U.S. gov-ernment eventually decided to reeriment eventually decided to require that all nonessential uses of fluorocarbons in spray cans be phased out by April 1979. The Canadian government is likely to follow suit, and the use of fluorocarbons may be restricted in Japan, Scandinavia, and West Germany. But some governments, notably the British, have decided to give the matter more study before taking

The fluorocarbon controversy is an interesting saga in its own right, and Dotto and Schiff describe the events in an entertaining and lively manner. But it epitomizes a broad-er problem. As the complex interelationships between environmental factors and public health become better known, and as techniques for detecting environmental contami nants are refined, a growing num-ber of technologies and products are likely to fall under suspicion. How should society act in such cas-In one of the most challenging - but unfortunately also the shortest — chapters in the book, Dotto and Schiff argue that products should oot be granted the same rights as people. They should not be assumed innocent until proven guilty, and, when hazards are indicated. the oous should be on the manufacturer to prove that the product is safe. That philosophy is now incorporated into some regulatory activities in the United States - the Toxic Substances Control Act, which requires preliminary safety testing of some chemicals before they are marketed, is a prime example. Ultimately, however, regulators are faced with the difficult task of balancing risks against benefits, a process that involves weighing desperate and often unmeasurable factors. In the case of fluorocarbon propellants, the balancing act was relatively easy once the ozone destruction theory had gained wide-spread credibility. Spray cans are not among society's most essential goods, and, in any case, alternative propellants are available for most aerosol products. Usually, risks and benefits are more finely balanced. and environmental dilemmas are also increasingly compounded by the fact that environmental problems are often international in their impact. Are our social and political institutions capable of dealing with such complex matters? Dotto and Schiff raise the question but they candidly admit that they do not have the answer.

BRIDGE

In bridge, as in life, planning for the future is a productive occupation but worrying about the past is oot. This does oot mean that past history does oot carry lessons of significance, but it does suggest that one must beware of emotion interfering with calculation. Most players, from time to time, are brooding on the previous deal when they should be giving their at-tention to the cards in their hands. A more subtle aspect of the same problem arises when the dummy goes down. The declarer finds himself in the wrong contract or sees a possibility that the hand should have been bid to a higher level. So he is still thinking about the bid-ding when he should be concerned with the play.

South failed to play an interesting slam cootract to best advantage. It was oormal to reach six spades after exploring the possibili-ty of a grand slam, and an intelligent auction is shown in the dia-

Once South discovered that his partner held an ace he was willing to venture a grand slam if his part-ner could help him avoid heart losers. His bids of five bearts and six hearts were attempts to convey that message, but North declined to COODSTALE.

When West led a diamond and the dummy appeared South began to wonder whether he should have to wonder whether he should have bid a grand slam. Barring a very bad trump distribution, a winning heart finesse would bring home 13 tricks. The odds were not right for seven, and he was in the right cootract. But be did not make the right mental adjustment by switching from the possibility of making 13 tricks to the danger of making only

Parker's Hitting Subdues Cubs

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (UPI) - Dave Parker led off the 11th inning with his second home run of the game and 29th of the season yester-day, lifting Pittsburgh to a 12-11 triumph over the Chicago Cubs for the Pirates' seventh straight victory and 18th in their last 23 games.

The victory, combined with Philadelphia's loss to Montreal, moved the Pirates one game behind the Phillies for the lead in the National League East.

Parker, who also homered in the first inning and had RBI singles in the third and eighth innings, drove a 1-0 pitch from loser Bruce Sutter, 8-9, into the right field bleachers to make reliever Odell Jones, 1-0, the winner. The Cubs, who trailed 10-2 in the sixth inning tied the game with five runs in the seventh and four more in the nioth. Dave Kingman got the ninth-inning rally started with a triple and scored on Mike Vail's single. A two-run single by pinch hitter Dave Johnson and Ivan DeJesus's RBI double then oed the

Parker raised his league-leading batting average to 327, and his four runs batted in gave him 111 for the season — also tops in the National League.

Braves 3, Astros 2

At Houston, rookie Bob Horner's double scored pincb runner Barry Bonnell, giving Atlan-ta a 3-2 victory over Houston, but not until Astro starter J.R. Richard had set a National League righthander's strikeout record of 290 in a season. Richard, who was oot involved in the decision, pitched no-hit hall for six innings before a double by Gary Matthews and a wild pitch helped Atlanta tie the score, 2-2, in the seventh.

Dodgers 8, Reds 0

At Los Angeles, Lee Lacy, in a 4-for-42 slump, collected three hits and drove in three runs while Rick Rhoden pitched a three-hitter and Los Angeles routed Cincinnati, 8-0, cutting its magic oumber in the National League West to three.

Cardinals 5, Mets 3

At St. Louis, Ken Reitz's twoout, two-run, tie-breaking double in the eighth inning gave St. Louis a 5-3 victory over New York.

Expos 5, Phillies 2

At Montreal, Larry Parrish had the big hit — a run-scoring double — in a three-run Mootreal seventhinning rally and the Expos went on to beat Philadelphia, 5-2.

Promoter Sues Ali, 4 Others

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20 (AP) — A white promoter of the Muhammad Ali-Leoo Spinks fight has sued Ali, former heavyweight champ Joe Frazier, comedian Dick Gregory and two others for $10 million for allegedly calling him a racist. The federal court suit, filed late yesterday, accused the five of libeling and slandering Jake DiMaggio, a New Orleans busiessman, at a news conference

Mooday.
Also oamed as defendants were Spinks's brother Michael and Ronald Lewis, who, until a few days ago, was an official of Top Rank Inc., the New York firm that was maio promoter for the fight. Gregory was Ali's ou-trition adviser for the fight, and Frazier saog the national

The suit accused the five of trying to "villify and libel, defame and slander" DiMaggio by accusing him of filing a racially motivated lawsuit against two black promoters. The remarks will cost DiMaggio's businesses, which deal in consulting and urban planning, $10 million, the suit charged. DiMaggio demanded an apology after Ali referred to the earlier lawsuit as "a white-man, black-man thing."

"Me, Muhammad Ali, go down there and apologize? Never," Ali said io Chicago. "Apologize for what? For tell-iog the truth?"

Cosmos Beaten Again

STUTTGART, Sept. 20 (UPI) -The New York Cosmos soccer team dropped another ooe-sided game io West Germany yesterday, losing to Stuttgart of the first division, 6-1. A week ago Bayern Munchen beat the Cosmos, 7-1.

Ireland, Ulster Draw, 0-0

Fears that there might be crowd trouble or violence on the field because of civil strife in Ireland proved unfounded, but neither was there much in the way of drama or excitement for the 55,000 in attendence at Lansdowne Road.

Northern Ireland well deserved the draw and looked to be the more-dangerous team in the second half. Its defense comfortably absorbed the Republic team's pressure, and the thrusts of Martin O'Neill and Sammy McIlroy trou-bled the southern team's defense, which hadly missed the authority of the injured David O'Leary.

The Republic's talented midfield trio of Liam Brady, Gerry Daly and Johnny Giles could never dictate the play, and player-manager Giles had his least-distinguished game in a long time.

Only one player was booked — Chris Nicholl of Northern Ireland for an over-robust tackle oo Paul today in a European soccer cham-pionship match — their first meet-Both victors were the host team.

Trouble for Tarantini

LONDON, Sept. 20 (Reuters)

Alberto Tarantini, the Argentine defender signed by Birmingham City of the English first division yesterday, may have to wait longer than expected to play for the club.

A spokesman for the British Department of Employment said today that a "temporary" ban on the signing of foreign fontball stars by English league chibs, imposed last month after three other Argentine players came here, will remain in force for the time being.

Tarantini's use by Birmingham depends upon his getting a work permit. The other Argentine World Cup stars — Osvaldo Ardiles and Ricardo Villa of Totrenham Hotspur and Alex Sabelle of Shef-Hotspur and Alex Sabella of Sheffield United — are not affected by the ban, which was imposed after they signed with their clubs.

Light-Heavyweight Champion Still Getting Used to the Title

By James Tuite

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (NYT) --Mike Rossman had a tough act to follow. Here he was, 22 years old and about to get a shot at the world light-heavyweight boxiog cham-pionship, and a porno queen was in the center of the New Orleans ring. removing all her clothes.

The woman in red - or out of it — was bustled past him as he approached the ring for his fight against Victor Galindez, the perennial champion. Rossman smiled. "What do you say to a naked lady?" he asked.

The stripper was still getting a standing ovation while Rossman was trying to get the attention of the 70,000 fans. It didn't take long. He opened a cut over Galindez's left eye. Then he finished off the husky Argentine in 55 seconds of the 13th round of the preliminary to the Ali-Spinks title fight. Comes the Dawn

"Suddenly," Rossman was saying during a luncheoo for him here.
"it dawned on me that I had woo, I was the light-heavyweight champlon of the world."

Rossman was more than just a champion: He was the first American to head the division in a decade. The 175-pound class has al-ways been the most international plateau of boxing, led by such for-midable champions as Georges Carpentier and Dick Tiger.

At the lunch, Rossman hardly looked formidable and could have passed for a college student. Gold, crossed boxing gloves, given to him by his wife, Maxime, dangled beceath the open collar of his blue and white sports shirt. He was flanked by his 20-year-old brother, Andy, and his father, Jimmy DePiano.

Rossman wears the Star of David oo his trunks and gets such nicknames as "the Kosher Butcher" because it's good for business in the ethnic world of boxing. Though half-Italian, he opted to use his mother's maiden name.

Land of Opportunity

"Only in America," Mike's portly father philosophized, "can an Italian kid turn Jewish to beat up Mexicans.

Actually Rossman beat up an Argeotice against tremeodous odds. Galindez had been unbeaten in 41 fights and had defended his World Boxing Association title 10 times, more often than other other light-heavyweight champion except Boh Foster (14).

Where does be go from here?
"I'm not thinking of that oow," said the happy New Jersey youth. "I just want to take a vacation." "I'll fix you up in Vegas," one of the fight crowd interrupted. "I'll call Asbe [Ashe Resnick, a former tive, and be'll fix you up. Won't cost anything, and it'll be legin-

Champions get that kind of treatment. Rossman nodded and smiled like a young man who had the whole world, including Las Vegas, at his feet. Somebody asked if he felt like a real-life Rocky.

"Well," he said, we know that Rocky Stallone can't fight, but he can act. We know that I can fight, and who knows what else I can do. There will be a lot of opportunities out there for me."

He did not rule out the possibilithat withio five years he would flesh out to heavyweight proportions of 200 pounds. He has put on three pounds since Friday.

Rose From the Ashes

"It took a licking to make a fighter out of you," a man chided. Rossman oodded. "That's right." he said, remembering that Alvaro (Yaqui) Lopez put him away in the sixth round last March. Galiodez held a 15-round decision over Lopez, another reason Galindez was strongly favored over Ross-

Lopez looms as Rossman's chief rival, aloog with Mate Parlov of Yugoslavia, the World Boxing Council champion. "He just ran out of gas against Lopez," explained J. Russel Peltz, the pro-moter who started Rossman on his career in Philadelphia, where he was born. Rossman drifted into boxing after visiting his father's gymnasium daily as a child. Someone put boxing gloves on Mike's hands at age 14 and pushed him into a ring. Within three years, he turned professional. He finished off Mike Quarry twice, once by a decision and later by a sixth-round knockout, and beat Christy Elhott, a hard-hitter. He was ranked sixth in the world when he entered the ring io New Orleans. Rossman's left speared Galindez time and again, like a deft picador taunting a bull.

"He's been in a lot of wars, you could see that," said Rossman of the Argenooe, "I knew I could cut him, there was so much scar tissue. His corner couldn't stop the cuts, and he kept looking there for help. He hit me with one good right, but

After the fight, a wear, Rossman, comforted because he would hring bome a $40,000 paycheck, said: "It's been a long summer. I'm not going to change my lifestyle. I'm not going to get an apartment in Manhattan or anything like that. I'm just going home."

WHA Gets $550,000 Bill For Signing 10 Juniors

OTTAWA, Sept. 20 (AP) - The those players," Baldwin said. He World Hockey Association should forfeit its $150,000 bond and pay junior hockey owners $40,000 for each of 10 under-age junior signed this year, Ed Chynoweth, executive director of the Canadian Major Junior Hockey League, said vester-

Chyooweth, who is trying to ocgotiate an agreement with the WHA oo the signing of under-age players, said the one-year bood was put up by the WHA last year to discourage "the drafting, signiog and playing of under-age juniors," those under 20 years old.

Chynoweth said the International Ice Hockey Federation bad been informed that the 10 juniors signed hy the WHA this year have been suspended by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

"We hope the llHF recognizes this and cancels 18 games scheduled this fall between WHA and European clubs in Canada," he players to recover the money.

Earlier this week, Howard
Baldwin, the WHA president, said that his league boped to complete a oew agreement with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Assocation on the signing of junior players in the next two weeks.

The league is preparing for the 1978-79 season with the three clubs expected to use under-aged players, cootrary to the league's bylaws and contrary to the existing agreement with the CAHA.

John Bassett of Toronto, majority owner of the Birmingham Bulls, said last week that his decision on whether to continue operating his club this season would be based on the league's position regarding use of the under-aged players.

The league last week considered

BARCELONA, Sept. 20 (UPI) -Johan Cruyff, the soccer star, owes Spain $4 million in tax fines, a Barcclona newspaper said yesterday. The evening newspaper El Noti-ciero Universal thus repeated a re-that Barcelona's former inside forward was in serious tax trouble. The paper said Cruyff, who played his last match for Barcelona in May, claims the club promised in its contract with him to pay the taxes. The new Barcelona management has agreed to respect the con-tract obligation and pay the $13.5

millioo fine, the newspaper said. Barcelona paid a record $1.7 mil-lion to buy Cruyff from Ajax of Amsterdam in 1973. In five years, Cruyff, 31, earned about $3 million from the club plus income for sponsoring commercial products.

WASHINGTON — A well- Somoza can't hold on much longer, known columnist came into and we should see to it that Lopez my office the other day and asked Who are you for. Somoza or the Commies in Nicaragua?"

Why do I only have a choice between a dictator and the Communists? Why can't I be for Lopez?"

"Who's Lopez?" "I don't know who Lopez is. Let's say he's the guy in the middle who hates Somoza and can't stand the Commu-nists." "Lopez would get eaten up by the Commies. If bounced out on his ear."

"What he is and what he does is not our concern. Do you realize if the other side kieks Somoza out. the Commies will have a dagger poioting right at the Panama Canal?

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (UPI) - A modified engine for the U.S. space shuttle has been test-fired on the ground for 5,000 seconds, clearing a major hurdle on the way to the shuttle's first orbital flight, it was announced yesterday.

Orbital flight has been delayed several mooths by recurring engine problems. But yesterday the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that one of two modified shuttle engines undergoing tests had accumulated the required test-firing time of 5,000 seconds in 15 tests at Bay St. Louis, Miss., during the last five weeks.

NASA Administrator Robert Frosch is to announce oo Monday the tentative date for the initial orhital flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. NASA sources said that the launch date would probably be in is pro-American, too. We're not going to do it if we keep training Somoza's National Guard officers to shoot the Nicaraguan people."

"So what you're saying is that we should get in bed with Castro?" "I'm saying oo such thing. All I'm saying is that I don't see why we always have to support a military junta when the people want to throw the rascals out."

"It's quite simple. Most of the generals in South America have been trained at West Point, including Somoza. They speak good English and you can do business with them. You let the people take over and you'll have another Cuba in six

"Not if we support Lopez," l said. "The reason the Commies have a chance of taking over is because the people know we're oo Somoza's side."

"You're living in a dream world," the columnist said. "Lopez doesn't have the strength to run a middle-of-the-road government."

"He would if we gave him as much military hardware as we've given Somoza. The only thing that's keeping Somoza in power is the stuff we've sold him. Why can't we give it to Lopez?"

"Because if we give the stuff to Lopez it will eventually fall into the hands of the Commies when they topple him. The only way Lopez can stay in power is by being anti-

The Fat People of Japan Get Organized

By Marianna Ohe OKYO (UPI) — The Japa-I nese, like people in most in-dustrialized Western countries, are putting on weight.

To console them, a portly songwriter has formed the Great Japan Fat People's League (Daipiren). Its philosophy is "Fat is Beautiful."

The 500-member group, which held its first meeting in January. has already staged a fat people's fashion show and is planning a grand fat people's athletic meet this fall. Some members of the group will take an air tour to Europe next February — with two airplane seats reserved for each passeoger. The heaviest member weighs 440 pounds.

Bad Thing

"In Japan, to he fat is thought to be a bad thing," says founder Asei Kobayashi. "Doctors say obesity is bad for health. The pressure on fat people is so great that they often suffer mental anguish and breakdowns. We be-lieve people should live a happy and joyful life whether they are fat or not."

Kobayashi, a successful composer of pop soogs and commer-cials who weighs in at 249 pounds, said that one of the strongest influences behind his decision to form the group was the death of American rock and

"Presley became sensitive about being fat, and so he became sick," he said. Kobayashi said that this fear of fat was imported from the United States, where there are more fat people than in Japan.

Old Days

"lo olden days in Japan, fat people were regarded as more beautiful than slim people. Even in Kahuki the lead player was fat, the good characters were all fat, and the gods and goddesses were all fat," he said.

He added with a smile that good leaders and politicians like Sir Winston Churchill, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Chinese Communist Party leader Mao Tse-tung were chubby while had leaders like Adolf Hitler and Hideki Tojo of Japan were thin.

At Daipiren's monthly meetings, participants are encouraged to be proud of being fat. (At the first session a "Mr. Fat" and "Miss Fat" were elected.) They also discuss problems faced by fat people, such as lack of fash-iouable elothing and discrimination in the form of words such as debu (blimp), butta (pig) and fut-tocha (fatty).

Monthly Meetings

The group plans a campaign to have designers and manufac-turers carry fashionable clothing for fat men and women in a wide variety of colors and styles. They are aiready arranging to have a fat people's corner in Tokyo's Isetan department store.

"In America, you have stores like 'Mr. Big.' There are no such shops in Japan," Kobayashi

Obesity, especially among middle-aged women, is indeed becoming a problem in Japan, according to a Health and Welfare Ministry official

He said that some 30 percent of all Japanese women in their 40s and 50s are overweight, with the percentage of overweight women in their 30s jumping from 13 to nearly 22 percent be-tween 1972 and 1976.

Among men in their 30s, 40s and 50s, between 16 and 19 percent are overweight.

At least in part, the increase in the number of obese Japanese is the result of general affluence and changes in eating habits due to the Westernization of their diet with beef, American-style fast foods and sweets.

But Kobayashi insists that doctors who say slim people statistically have longer lives are

Individuals

"Each person has his own background. For some it is unhealthy to be fat, for others it is fine," he said. About American diet groups such as "Weight Watchers." Ko-bayashi said, "I don't tell any-one they shouldn't get slim. If they want to get slim, that's okay. I don't urge them to stay fat either. There's no reason wby people should desire to be slim or fat. Our group is a group with

To underline this, be explains that members of his office staff often ask him, "Since you think fat is beautiful, you must like fat women," to which he replies, "Oh, no." He adds that his wife

And when pressed to list some of the good things about being fat, he says, "Hummum, there aren't too many, are there? Anyway, fat people are usually hig-hearted and easygoing."

Kobayashi said that he thinks the "Fat is Beautiful" movement will grow. He said that there are already groups similar to his in Britain and the United States.

"Maybe we can have the first world fat people's meeting in Japan," he said.

Bodyguard Arrested PEOPLE: For Robbing Jagger

A former bodyguard for singer Mick Jagger of the Rolling Stones has been arrested in connection with the theft of some $15,000 in jewels from the rock star's heavily gnarded Beverly Hills mansion. Po-lice arrested James Harrington, 26, at his brother's apartment. A spokesman said that when Harrington was arrested, he had in his possession a gold stick pin with diamond chips valued at over $1,000 which belonged to Jagger. None of the other, jewels was recovered. Last Thursday night Jagger called Beverly Hills police after he was awakened by an intruder who crept in and out of his bedroom and made off with the jewels and cash. The singer told Beverly Hills police that he ran to a security post at his mansion to summon help.
